PROFIT

I, Mother Nature, am with you on this day and in this mode of communication, in order to share what you have known for quite some time and yet have shied away from in your everyday lifestyle. You are the person on earth that is able to be what you want to be, at the time that you want to be, and yet you completely forget to be profitable to yourself. That is a fact.

What do I mean by that? Well, it is this mode of living that sheds some light on the word 'profit'. You awaken at the time of the alarm going off, or something triggers you to start your day at that given timing. You jump out of bed and into the bathroom to ready yourself for the day. Your thoughts are about anything outside of yourself – not your clothing and food consumption because that now seems to be habitual, and it is not about how you are getting to work or school or play in any form. But it is the concept of who you will be meeting, whether you can handle the day's chores and how much money you are able to make by doing so. Who do you need to speak with and how will you answer the questions that might come your way. Those are the thoughts outside of your own being. Yes, you are going to be sharing your day with others, but why do they need to be first and you last? Is that a profit to yourself? The answer is no.

I, Mother Nature, am here on this day to share something precious with you. You are in this life on earth to find out more about yourself. That is a fact. You know your gender, your body size and your interests on earth perhaps, or believe you do. You know what you need to do each day to achieve some goal or another in your job or in the art of making money. You understand what society expects of you, and you recognize the value of having some people in your life to assist you in your journey. But what about you and what about what you want to do and not what society expects you to do? What do you want for yourself? And it is not new clothes or shoes, by the way. What do you want to see, hear, smell, taste or touch today, to have you feeling more comfortable in that body of yours? What do you want to understand about yourself and how well you are feeling in the confidence of knowing about your talents and abilities? What do you have a hankering for in the domesticated form of food that is available for you to enjoy? It is something that nature provides to you on a daily basis, or is it something that the advertisements make enticing? Contemplations for sure. Thank you indeed.

One more aspect of Profit — you only need to ask yourself and politely listen to yourself to become more of who you are on this day.

Thank you indeed and good day.
