

MONARCHY

I, Quaw, the Ultra Energy of the Universal All That Is, am with you at this timing, to assure you that right now, life is continuing in a fast-paced, but slow-paced timing. Now, that sentence seems to be two sides, twice. Interesting wording, interesting statement and of course, a guide to you at this timing. That means that you are feeling two sides and twice applied most days. How and why? Well, it is because of the changes in the world itself as you know it, because the earth has altered itself and everything is in the mode of alteration. You are now seeing yourself in a different light. You are now looking at the world you are living in specifically, and that is a different perspective from ever before. Your little world in the bigger world and what are you noticing? Both are the same and not the same and you want to know and yet, you don't want to know. What happens next and why and how and when? Those questions have no answers from anywhere really. That is a fact.

Everyone's energy is altering and that makes for change and that is excellent. Some changes. Perhaps you would like to gauge the change you have made in your thoughts, your words and maybe your actions, but certainly in the feelings you are experiencing at the 'normal' happenings in your life. Opening up to newness is a little scary of course, but here is what I am suggesting. When you are feeling like there is just one too many questions to answer to yourself, think of yourself as a monarch. Not the butterfly of course, but the monarch in some countries, that have been raised to be the individual who has the answers, the sparkle, the intelligence and the bound determination to do for their public the best they are able, and influence all to be better today than they were yesterday.

The Monarchy is raised to respect all citizens in an equal manner, which is a big job for anyone at all, but especially the normal human being, who has emotions of their own and a definite role in this lifetime to learn about themselves. So, it is a suggestion that what you do personally in any country, is to look at yourself as the monarch and then look at yourself as the person in their constitution and gauge what you might suggest for finding a feeling of comfort within. Is that a tough call? Maybe, you are unaware of what the monarchs in the world are supposed to be attending to in their day-to-day life. They are always in the limelight we call it. They are always scrutinized with their bodily appearance and their clothing and their speech and their smiles and their health. They are supposed to be ready and willing to deal with all challenges they are looking after and their home as well as their own family. They are expected to be almost unhuman when they are human. Respect is provided to them and sometimes it is called protection from harm of course.

So, with you as monarch at all times in life as well as a human being in the 'real' world, how would you handle it? Are you willing to look at yourself and present yourself in a proper manner to others at all times? Are you willing to smile and be polite and respectful to all others at all times? Are you willing to be gracious and patient and smile while you do so?

Being a monarch might seem like a big and sometimes tedious role to play because it takes time to learn all the manners and the 'presence' that you require, but, but, but, in real life, you are the monarch of yourself. That is a fact.

You are the one that is looking after you. You do not have the responsibility of looking after all people in your particular country. You do not need to consult with the politicians about keeping everyone happy because you just need to be that way for yourself. Are you able to do that? Dismiss everything that is going on in any country and value yourself at this timing? I, Quaw, am trusting that you will say yes to that question, because, the fact is, you are in charge of you.

Although this might seem like a very unusual mode of letting you know of your importance, you are at least able to understand the variance of your normal life when compared to any monarch in the world at this timing. It is like they are treated in a form of separation from all others, and that is a trap in some forms, would you not agree? To live a life of exposure in order to teach everyone about equality and how to be a perfect person? Is that a job for you? No, it is not, but it is the one that is going to allow you to honour yourself in equality with all others. It will allow you to be the best you can be in your decision-making about what you eat, what you wear for presentation, what you are doing with yourself at all times of being awake and asleep, and it also will honour your inner most desires of being likeable to yourself, accepted by yourself and of course feeling the movement within you to being the best person you are able to know at this timing.

Thank you indeed and good day.