Many Perceptions of You

I, Mother Nature, am with you on this day and in this way, for you to learn more about yourself on earth, yourself as a person, and yourself as a creature of habit and finding the balance within yourself. You are on earth, and you therefore are physical. However, in order to be on earth successfully, you need to honour your energy body within that physical body of yours. It is called the Chakra System, and you have seven main chakras that are represented to you via simple information flow that shows them as colours. Each chakra is alive and well of course, but the concentration in your physical world about their varying meanings to you personally, respond with what is required by you in your day-to-day life. It is the case normally, that people think of themselves as physical and then have an energy connection, but in reality, they work together with your thoughts, words and actions.

So, what does it mean to you at this timing, to have a physical body that you can see, and an energy body that you cannot see or hear or feel most of your waking hours? What does it mean to you right now, and in the space that you are sitting, laying or standing in, as you are reading this information flow. It is time to honour your answer. It needs to be the truth, but I am willing to listen to your lie if you insist on providing it in that form.

The chakra system is in everything on earth – does that surprise you? Probably. You think of yourself as a human being only and likely not part of nature itself. So firstly, it does not matter if you are a tree, a plant, a flower, a domesticated creature, an undomesticated creature, the air, the earth, the water, the sun or moon or a star – you are energy in totality.

In addition, you have a physical body that is sufficiently dense that all of your senses are able to note that physical body of yours. It will be noted of course, according to the one that is gazing upon you. For example, a male would depict you as a female first, then would declare that you were good in height, weight, colouring and presence in his life. Or if it is a woman doing the assessing, it would be the opposite, but still the same criteria. However, if you are being looked at by a government official, they wouldn't care about your gender necessarily, or your height and weight etc. They would care about your age, your economic basis and your ability to produce income on their behalf. If you are being looked at as a friend or relative, they would be looking at you as to what you contribute to their life – in friendship, in provisions available, in how you can assist and support them with their life if they require it. They will not care about what the first observation did, or the second, just a different look at that same person. Then we could gaze at you as a creature might – that creature looks at you for your thoughts, your words and your actions. They will assist you in the way they are on earth to do. You have information available about how creatures are willing to assist while you are a human being. All creatures on earth are assisting humans on a moment-to-moment basis. That might be unknown you to previously, but it is a fact. Now, that means that you have many varying perspectives of you that are being noted by others in the world with you and all are gazing at you as a human being. Did you notice the variance as to what the creatures note and what people note? I would hope so. Some people look at you as a physical being only. Nature will notice you as an energy being in the physical body. They go for your thoughts, which are not physically recognized until you put them into words and actions. The thoughts, however, are noted by all of nature – whether creatures, trees or plants or of course the requirements of life on earth being the sun, moon and stars, the ground, the air and the water. So, you have many perceptions of you on earth.

But here is another one – that of how your star relates to you and when. How the sun relates to you and when and the same with the moon. And how your energy partners view you as well. All of them are touching base with you in your energy body itself. All are assisting you to change your energy body, just as the earth is changing its vibrational rate. You are being noted not for your style, grace or beautiful smile at this timing of change. You are being changed by the thoughts you are having and how you are implementing them. Change is here and you have no choice but to change. It is your choice as to how you change and that will depend on how you look at yourself and who you feel you are.

Interesting concept, interesting topic of conversation and an interesting welcome to the world of change, wherein you have a big say in how you are being perceived by yourself.

Thank you indeed and good day.
