

LOVE

I, Thor, the Ultra Energy of the Universal All That Is, am with you on this day and in this way to introduce you to some information that comes from the heart of the universe in some ways and maybe, just maybe, it will be meeting with you and your heart as well. Thank you indeed.

I, Thor, am willing to share with you what the heart of the universe is. That is a form of love that you are not understanding in your physicalness at this timing but you will understand it just a little better as I describe it to you. LOVE is a word that you use in all forms of endearments in your life, those objects that you enjoy and maybe the flowers or plants that you keep dear to your heart. It means a connection, whether momentarily or for longer periods of time, but it is a connection to people, places and things while you are on earth. If you think about the word, it brings a beating to your heart that perhaps could be heard but certainly would be felt. It allows you to relax just a bit, it allows you to breath a little less or a little more when you think about the object of your love and it honours you to know what that feeling is like. That rather describes love on earth.

However, the heart of the Universal All That Is, believes LOVE is variant from what we have just described. That is because it is different, and it is variant and it is almost impossible to describe to those on earth. It is huge in its possibilities, its probabilities and its wealth of feelings. It is not emotional though, just full of a feeling of acceptance, feelings of comfort, feelings of being, and feelings that tingle in every aspect of the energy of light that is happening with all, that is in that sphere of living. It is a light that shines, that accepts and that is conducive to any aspect of energy flow existing in the universe, on earth and in each person on earth. It includes all on earth, whether part of what you would term the natural world of trees, plants and creatures, or the combination of anything that exists in any form whatsoever in every aspect of the Universal All That Is. Each level of energy is included and that is massive to behold. It is about thoughts and about actions that expound from the thoughts, and it is the ability to be anything you want at any time you want. It is and it is and it is. There are many modes to call it, but each one is a form of that very magical aspect of LOVE. Thank you indeed.

When you are in the universe and not on earth, you are nothing but energy and within that energy is light. You have thoughts, you have actions, but there are no words spoken. Your conversations are only via thoughts and words are not required. Thought conveyance is the form of love that you have from yourself to others. You are always busy with yourself and your learning about energy forms and the magnitude of what is possible. You are able to make decisions as to what you want to do and when and how, and it is all done with the quality of LOVE. Thank you indeed.

While you are on earth, it is hard to imagine what it is like when you are not on earth, and quite often you have a feeling it will be the same or at least similar. That would not be so, for the universal energy, there is no duality. There is only love and light and energy forms of many levels, dependent upon what has been learnt about energy and what is still to be learned. There is no discrimination, there is no prejudice and no dis-heartened complexes about. It is a place where you are accepted, you are honoured and you have the ability to honour others. That is a fact.

It is time now, to understand something important. Right now, the earth is changing to bring more light into the darkness that the earth is experiencing with negativity. It is not having a challenge with the darkness you think of as your night. Only the darkness within society as a whole and how they are wanting to treat each other, the nature that surrounds them and how they are treating themselves. That is a fact. That type of darkness does not abide by the rules of LOVE at all. It abides by the emotional content within the human beings. That is where it resides. You might call it love if you are contemplating a person in charge, a love of a country, or a love of certain foods, but the love that you have on earth is not able to compete with the love in the Universal Energies. So, what does that mean to you? Well, it means that you are special right now, because you have chosen to read the words that will honour you as you grow into your own energy level that is keeping up with the changes in the earth itself. You are able to call it earth or the world, but there are two varying degrees of living between the two at this timing. The world seems to be running on what those rich and famous are wanting and doing, and the earth is ridding of the old and allowing the new to take place. That is a fact. The earth is what you are being asked to learn about, and the world is what you want to draw back from, as far as their suggestions to you are concerned.

Now is the timing to learn to LOVE yourself. Think of what it would be like in the universe with just thoughts to guide you and allow yourself to have loving thoughts of yourself each and every time you have a word or an action in your day. Put yourself first in your thoughts and start to learn about LOVE.

Thank you indeed and good day.
