TEAM REWARDS

I, Quaw, the Ultra Energy of the Universal All That Is, am with you at this time, along with Lynn Joy Payne, who is channeling me. It makes it quite interesting how confident we can become in our forms of learning. Learning about each other, learning about ourselves. And in that timing of learning, we develop confidence, and confidence provides you and me with the idea of what I might know about and what I want to share with someone else, or maybe just with myself.

Most people in the world these days like to share whatever ability they might have, but normally it is to add money to their repertoire of living, or perhaps their ego, we shall call it. But how many people have confidence in themselves just because they're learning more about themselves? To have real confidence, and not just a smidge, you need to have an ability within you that you respect, an ability that you are willing to utilize, along with a team that goes with it. And by team, I mean everything that goes with you to create the ability as you search. So, it might take clothing, it might take equipment, it might take an idea, it might take an audience, it might take a government to assist you. If it's athletic, then it's a team or it's an association that you belong to.

All of those are part of your team, right down to the pens and pencils and the paper clips. How interesting are those three Ps? At any rate, it is time to learn a little bit more about confidence within yourself. First of all, you have confidence in an ability. Find an ability that you have that you are willing to explore. It will allow you to explore more about yourself, really, and it will hinge in everything in your life. That ability will assist you in everything else in your lifetime, and that's pretty interesting unto itself. In addition, I would have to say that it is the best aspect of living at this time. You have an ability, you add respect to it, you have a team that you create to manage to utilize the ability, and you have a target for where that ability will go.

If it's just money, you might want to add to that, that you're not only making money, but you're adding to the understanding of yourself just a little bit more. If you don't need the money and you just want to use the ability, you are adding a bonus to your life and to the understanding of yourself and the beginnings of the respect and love that you could possibly have for your own being.

Confidence requires respect, it requires a team to make it happen, and it requires you to understand yourself a little bit better that you want to share in some fashion in the world itself. Thank you indeed. Good day.